Cryptozoology and Living Dinosaur Photographs

The Hard Evidence

This photograph of a juvenile long-necked, marine reptile was taken by Sandra Mansi at Lake Champlain, VT. She said, "I do not think I saw a dinosaur. I know I saw a dinosaur."

A statue of a dragon in Russia.

A Egyptian Hieroglyph from a London, England museum that depicts a plesiosaur-like animal. Modern archaeologists have classified it as a swimming bird. Special thanks to David Brown and Kevin Myers.

This is a Ica Stone from around 1000 AD. It is heavily weatherized and proven authentic. It depicts a sauropod dinosaur with dermal frills.

An Ica Burial Stone from Peru, made around 1000 AD.

An ancient illustration in the Grand Canyon of a bipedal dinosaur.

An Indian painting discovered near Lake Superior, Canada.

This fossilized human footprint was discovered in Texas. It is in the same rock layer that dinosaur fossils are in.

This fossilized human skull is in a Jurassic rock layer. It was discovered in Peru.

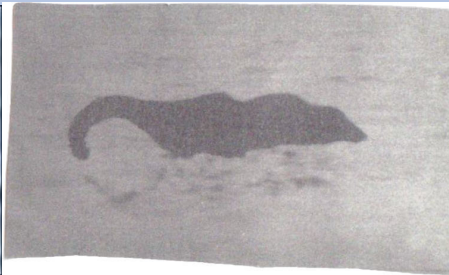

This Nazca burial cloth from Northern Peru, is over a thousand years old. As you can see, it depicts a dinosaur.

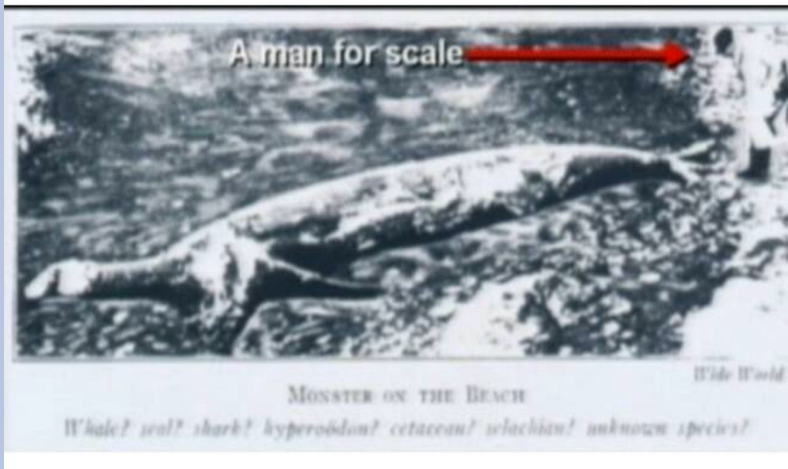

These are not Mokele-mbembe's footprints. They were found in the Congo during 1966 by french professional photographer, Yvan Ridel. The tracks were apparently left by a three-toed, large, bipedal animal.

Dr. Washington Crossing, PA 18977

These are photographs of England's sea monster, Morgwr.

This creature washed up in Normandy, France. It has never been identified.

This photograph is of unknown origin and it may be a fake. It should be noted that around the area where this photograph was supposedly taken, locals report sightings of " three foot tall, bipedal lizards."

This photo was sent to Art Bell some years ago. It supposedly is from an old newspaper. It may well be a hoax.

This is a photograph of the Ogoopogo, British Columbia's famous lake monster. Research indicates that the animal has features of a marine reptile.

In the chinese horoscope is the dragon a normal animal among the other animals that are not extinct. Why did the chinese put a "fictional" animal into their horoscope? Because it was no fiction but reality about the time of the beginning of the chinese horoscope. The dragon is a dinosaur. Men could see living dinos. I think the evolution is not a correct theory. In the tales of every nation can be found dragons. In the Bible too. (Leviathan and Behemoth, in the book of Job) These are the facts of the collective memory of the mankind.

This is so stupid! Dinosaurs are extinct, deal with it! The only left dinosaurs are the birds. We call a reptile that swims in the sea, a sea reptile or a 'plesiosaur' not a dinosaur. Dinosaurs only live on land.
